

Dillard University/Loyola University New Orleans/Notre Dame Seminary/
Tulane University/Xavier University of Louisiana Partnership
Memorandum of Understanding for Cross-Registration

Effective July 1, 2012, this agreement is established among Dillard University, Loyola University New Orleans, Tulane University, Xavier University of Louisiana and Notre Dame Seminary to create a cooperative arrangement for students to cross-register for undergraduate courses at partner institutions during the fall and spring semesters. This arrangement allows students at each of the participating schools to pay tuition at their home institution while they enroll in courses for credit at one of the universities named in this partnership. This Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) does not supersede previous ROTC agreements or agreements regarding "3+2 degree" programs.

Course credits from partner institutions will fully transfer as a letter grade on the student's transcript according to each institution's grading policy. The full terms and procedural details for this arrangement will be developed and agreed to by the participating universities in due course. They will then be shared with students at the participating universities.

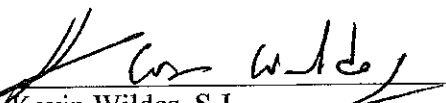

Cross-registration opportunities are contingent upon capacity in courses not available to students at their home institution. Students who cross-register must maintain full-time status including credit hours taken at partner institutions. Of the courses counted towards full-time enrollment, at least nine credit hours must be taken at the home institution, with students registering for a maximum of six credit hours per semester at one or more partner universities.

This agreement will exist in its present form until June 30, 2015, at which time appropriate partner institution administrators will review, renew, amend or suspend it as necessary. Prior to this date, any modifications made to this agreement are subject to the review and approval of the appropriate representatives from partner institutions.
